MISCELLANEOUS READING. Where in the whole range of English poetry can be found a better description of an infant than the following lines afford? They are by Dr. Holland, author of the "Titcomb

What is the little one thinking about

Very wonderful things, no doubt, Unwritten history! Unfathomable mystery! Yet he laughs and cries, and eats and drinks,

And chuckles and crows, and nods and winks As it his head were as full of kinks, And curious riddles as any sphinx! Warped by colic, and wet by tears,

Punctured by pins, and tortured by fears, Our little nephew will lose two years; And he'll never know Where the summers go;— He need not laugh, for he'll find it so'

Who can tell what a baby thinks? Who can follow the gossamer links By which the mannikin feels his way Out from the shore of the great unknown, Blind, and wailing, and alone, Into the light of day?-

Out from the shore of the unknown sea. Tossing in pitiful agony,— Of the unknown sea that reels and rolls, Specked with the barks of little souls-Barks that were launched on the other side, And slipped from Heaven on an ebbing tide.

What does he think of his mother's eyes What does he think of his mother's hair What of the cradle roof that flies Forward and backward through the air? What does he think of his mother's breast Bare and beautiful, smooth and white. Seeking it ever with fresh delight-

Cup of his life and couch of his rest? What does he think when her quick embrace Presses his hand and buries his face Deep where the heart-throbs sink and swel With a tenderness she can never tell, Though she murmur the words Of all the birds-

Words she has learned to murmur well? Now he thinks he'll go to sleep! I can see the shadow creep Over his eyes, in soft eclipse, Over his brow, and over his lips, Out to his little finger tips, Softly sinking, down he goes! Down he goes! Down he goes! [Rising and carefully retreating to her seat See! He is hushed in sweet repose!

A PRETTY SHARP RETORT. On Saturday, two young ladies, very gen teelly dressed, were riding along Fifth street in a 'bus. One of them, whose features were of nose than anything else, exhibited to the mediately after the drawing—other prizes at the usual time of thirty days. an elderly lady got into the 'bue at the corner of Eim and Fifth. She was evidently one of the e inquisitive yet good natured souls who take a deal of innocent liberty in the world without thinking any barm. After riding a square or so she reached out her hand, and said to the lady with the picture: "Piesse let me look at it." Her modest rethat each one is entitled to, will be published quest was met with an indignant frown, and the reply, as the case was returned to the
